Letter of Recommendation

It is a distinct pleasure and honour to recommend Eram Rahman of IILM University, Greater NOIDA, who served as a Research Intern with the Under The Tree initiative of Pedon Ki Chhanv Mein Foundation during June 1-22, 2026. Though Eram's engagement with our project spanned for three weeks, the quality, depth, and sincerity of her contribution placed her among the most impressive young researchers our programme has ever had the privilege of welcoming. Great impact, I have long believed, is not a function of time – and Eram proved this with every single day she gave to this project.

As the Chief Mentor of the Under The Tree Project, I was Eram's direct supervisor throughout her internship. She was deployed primarily on Cohort B and Cohort C/D research activities – conducting structured questionnaire surveys with secondary school students and college-going respondents on subjects as varied and sensitive as language-medium barriers in education, inadequate home study environments, the impact of digital distraction on academic performance, mental health and exam-related stress, and the profound challenges of being a first-generation learner in an unsupported academic system. These are not easy subjects to explore with strangers from vulnerable communities. Eram navigated every one of them with a grace, sensitivity, and maturity that I found genuinely remarkable.

From her very first day, Eram was fully and immediately operational. There was no settling-in period, no need for repeated guidance on methodology or approach. She arrived prepared, motivated, and with a clear understanding of why the work she was doing mattered. Her ability to establish trust and rapport with respondents – particularly young women from families in which higher education was a novelty – was exceptional. Multiple community coordinators noted her outstanding ability to create an atmosphere of openness and safety in which students felt genuinely heard, often sharing experiences and perspectives that they had rarely, if ever, articulated before.

Letter of Recommendation

Eram's documentation and reporting were exemplary. In a research context where the accuracy and completeness of data directly determines the quality of the advocacy and recommendations that follow, her precision and care stood out as exceptional. Her field notes were thorough and insightful. Her data entries were consistently accurate. Her written analytical summaries demonstrated a quality of thinking well beyond what might be expected of someone at her stage of academic development – she identified patterns, asked probing follow-up questions, and reflected meaningfully on what her findings revealed about the lives and aspirations of the students she was meeting.

What moved me most about Eram, however, was her sense of purpose. She was not simply completing an internship requirement – she was genuinely, visibly invested in the mission of the Under The Tree initiative and in the communities we serve. Her compassion for the students whose stories she collected, and her commitment to ensuring that those stories were recorded with the accuracy and care they deserved, spoke to a depth of character that will serve her – and the people around her – well throughout her life.

I recommend Eram Rahman without any reservation and with the most sincere and wholehearted admiration. In one month, she made a contribution that would have been impressive across a far longer period. She is gifted, purposeful, empathetic, and deeply committed to making a difference. Whoever has the privilege of working with her next will be very fortunate indeed.

Sincerely,

Meetali Anup Sinha

Chief Mentor, Under The Tree Project
